Nicotinamide N-methyltransferase (NNMT) is a ubiquitous enzyme with broad substrate specificity which has been shown to be upregulated in the brain of human Alzheimer's disease. Whether increased levels of NNMT in the brain are a cause or effect of cognitive decline remains to be determined. In this study, the mRNA and protein distribution of NNMT was investigated in rat hippocampus and cortex by in situ hybridization and immunohistochemistry. NNMT mRNA distribution showed a neuronal localization while the protein was found in glial cells.
